Diving Deeper in Sustainability with Ocean-Bound Plastic

Defining Ocean-Bound Plastic

Ocean-bound Plastic (OBP) is plastic waste located within 50 km from shores, at risk of ending up in oceans. OBP is responsible for almost 80% of all plastic marine litter.

The Problem

About 9.5 million tonnes of plastic waste enters our oceans every year, equivalent to dumping a truck full of garbage every minute

The Solution

Effectively collecting and recycling ocean-bound plastic for lowering marine pollution and increasing availability of recyclates

AVI is ready with a range of recycled Ocean-Bound PET Punnets, certified by Control Union and Zero Plastic Oceans. Our OBP rPET punnets offer source validation and let brands transparently share the story and sustainability impact of their packaging.

Meets sustainability goals

Reduces CO2 emissions

Protects Life Below Water –
UN SDG Goal 14

Independently verified materials

REACH & USFDA-approved

Eco-labels for consumer awareness, if OBP content is 25% or higher

Inspire Real Change with End-consumers

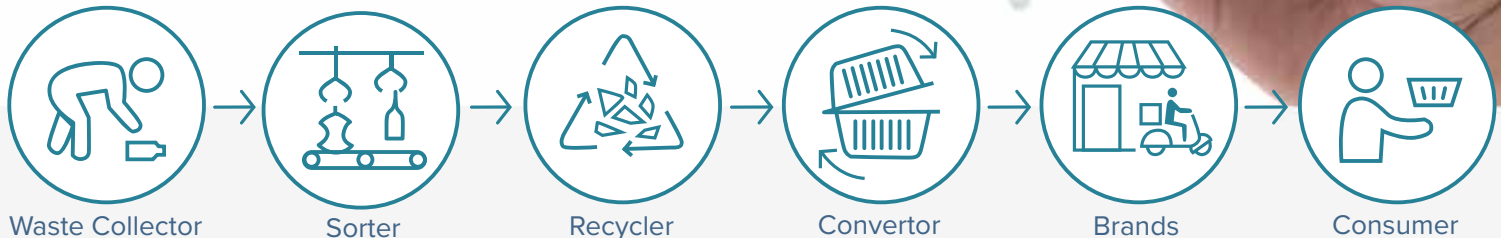

Our proprietary rPET traceability platform AVI Trace let's brands and consumers track the journey of post-consumer plastic from source to packaging, at the touch of a button.

From authenticating sustainability impact to encouraging better waste management, demonstrate real change with end-consumers through digital proofs and fully-traceable recycles.
